

Further Food Waste Tips

For Poster 22

Check with your local surplus food distributors to see if they can take your damaged food. Build up a list of neighbouring charities/organisations which might welcome occasional donations. Put it out on social media that you are either offering usable, damaged goods free or for a much reduced price and advertise within your premises if appropriate. Encourage staff to take damaged goods so long as you know this won't be abused.

Do your level best not to have to throw food away but, if you do, make sure it goes where it can be used to produce energy rather than methane.
