

Further Food Waste Tips

For Poster 24

Exciting things afoot locally. The very first Food Waste Community Compost pilot is under discussion with, possibly, a parallel garden waste facility as well. Hopes are that locals will be proud to be part of the scheme so that, if successful, it can be expanded across the town to benefit all without incurring additional car journeys. A properly run composter should not smell unpleasant or attract vermin. We all have waste to dispose of and must accept that we have a duty to help ensure that this is done sustainably in the best interests of the environment and our neighbours. The wonderful end process of composting is the free bags of compost available to scheme members and local eco groups should they be able to use them.
